MORE ABOUT US

Southwinds is a literary and arts magazine published annually in the spring semester to showcase the creative work of Missouri University of Science and Technology students, faculty, staff, and alumni. The club Southwinds, which produces the magazine, is a recognized student organization on campus and is open to any S&T student or staff member to join! Southwinds' mission is to inspire and prosper the creativity of the Missouri S&T community.

Each fall semester, Southwinds welcomes new submissions from the campus community. The magazine seeks contributions which can be submitted to our submission page! The traditional deadline for submissions for the spring issue is Valentines Day!
